MASONRY. The Speech of President Johnson a the Masonic Banquet at Boston. BROTHERS: In responding to the toast which you have just drank, I can only tender you my sincere thanks for the re-ception that I have received in coming here to-day. Had I intended, or felt in-clined, to make an address, I must freely say language would have been inadequate to express the emotions which have been awakened in me by so cordial a welcome. from the remaining part of this celebrathat has been exhibited on this occasion, as the beginning of a new era in Masonry for it seems to me the prejudice, and, has rested upon Masonry for a large num-

But I must leave my intelligent brothers to infer what I should have said or ought to have said. If it were necessary to make any excuses for not addressing you on this occasion, I might out forward those that have already been suggested by the Grand Master-first, that I must absent myself tion; and next, the severe press that has been made upon me since leaving Washington. To-day, as you all know (such of you as have participated in its labors) has been one of work, not one of play. Gentlemen, I regard the demonstrations made to-day, and the manifestation of feeling was going to say, the incrustation which ber of years seems, from the demonstration to-day, to have been broken. As I am before you I cannot repress or restrain myself from ealling your attention to this I have witnessed many Macelebrations, and have particiated in many, and I have heard the eers and taunts cast upon them as the brethren have turned out in their appropri ate attire; but on this occasion let me ask every man and brother that has been here to-day if he did not feel that he was a man, and that he was willing to wear and exhibit and to put on Masonry and all its appendages. One of the most remarkable hings to-day has been that, notwithstand ing things have been a little mixed through out this vast procession—this countless crowd—I have not heard the first expression of scrimony. [Loud applause.] Hence the remark I have made, that we have commenced a new era, and its great principles being understood, it is pleasing for us to know that its principles embrace the universe, and are coextensive with hu manity. Having reached this great end, all that is necessary is energy and progress, and the consummation of the great objects of Masonry will be accomplished. I should not have whited Massachusetts, at least on the present occasion, had it not been for order of Masonry. I came in good faith for the express purpose of partici pating in and witnessing the dedication of this temple to-day to Masonry, and as far as I could, let it be much or little, to give it my countenance and my sanction. have shown no restraint, for I have felt sone, and in this, as in most thing in which I have participated, I have first satisfied my conscience that I was right, and that boing so, have left consequences to take care of themselves. And now this great termination being reached, we must rejoice in the triumph of the living, the indestructible principles which have pervaded the fraternity from its advent till the present time. I did not rise, my brothers, for the purpose of making a speech, and I had not intended to say as much as I have. I do this, however, by way of episode. There are some, per haps, who would not be prepared to con-cede that I am not loquacious. I am not, as a general thing, however, very garrulous or loquacious. The little of talking I have done has been more a matter of necessity than of choice; but when compelled to speak, I care not before what audience or ribunal it has been-when truth, when principle, when my country, when the great cause of the human family was at stake, I have spoken. I have done so in times gone by, when the very existence of my government and country was imperilled. I believe that the great principles of Masonry are synonymous with the great principles of free government, and if my brothers will examine my public career from my advent in political life till the present time. I think they will find that I have been true to both. Although personally a stranger to Massachusetts, I am her intimate friend and acquaintance, and politically it matters not where we are whether in the East or the West, or the -whether in the East or the West, or the North or the South, when those great principles come up. Men that understand them can act in concert and harmony. have never failed to defend the order though the fraternity have passed through many severe ordeals which have tried and subjected its votaries to tests of the most excruciating character. I care not whether it is religion or politics, or both combined in the pursuit and in the support of a correct principle I have never hesitated to express my views. I live for principle, am devoted to principle, and I take fresh courage from the demonstrations which have been made to day by the people of the good city of Boston and the State of Musachusetts. I thank you for that demon stration-a manifestation of feeling and an suburst as it were, of popular sentimen which has rarely been equalled, and I doub bether one like it ever occurred in the United States or elsewhere. In conclusion I have to say I am here by your invitation and I thank you for it. Though I am pretty well advanced in life, I hope I may spared for some time longer; and I do assure you that the remembrance of this coasion will be green and fresh in my memory when I shall go down to my grave. I am gratified, more than gratified, that I have had an opportunity to y the ceremonies here to-day. Then, in eaving the party here to-night, and in hidng you good-by, let me leave with you a sincere thanks of a heart that beats for choicest blessings. [Applause:] CORPUS RADICAL ORATORS SENT SOUTH want.-A corps of thirty stump orators have been turned loose upon the Southern States by the Union Congressional Republiean Committee, twenty of whom are colored men. These speakers go charged with the strongest Republican logic within reach of the Congressional committee, and with the determination not to permit even one of the smallest villages to escape its share of political advice. Reinforcements to this curps are being recruited and equipped daily, and another detachment of orators will wend Southwards in a few days - Washington Correspondent of the New York Becald.

EXCUSE ME

Two weeks ago a man ran breathless into a crowd that had assembled on Main street, St. Louis, and asked what was the matter? On being told that a man had been killed, he exclaimed in a disappointed tone: "Is that all, I thought it was a dog fight !" The oflowing, which occurred on street, Sacramento, Cal, is a kindred occurrence: "A German was riding along the above-mentioned street, when he heard a pistol shot behind, and heard the whizzing of a ball near him, and felt his hat shake. He turned and saw a man with a revolver n his hand, and took off his hat and found a fresh buller hole in it.

"Did you shoot at me?" asked the man.

"Yes," replied the other party, "that's my horse; it was stolen from me recently."

"You must be mistaken," said the German, "I have owned the horse for three "Well," said the other, "when I come o look at him, I believe I am mistaker

Excuse me, sir, won't you take a drink?" THE New York Citizen contained, a couple of weeks ago, an elaborate article de-fending Horace Greeley for his Jeff. Davis bail-bond episode. This drew from Mr. Greeley the following letter to the editor

"Albany, 'une 13.—Dear Miles: I thank you heartily for your article of last Saturday, though I ask none to commend or justify me; I only beg my friends not to apologize for me. I make no apologies and want none; I can wait. I know that the Yankee school mistresses traching negro young ones in Dixie, understand and appreciate what I have done; and I am confident that the politicians will be able to do so by and by. But whether they shall or shall not, I know what good I have done to 'liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable,' and no personal inconvenience shall make me repent of what I have well done. * Yours have well done, " " Your, always truly, "General C. G. Halpine." Yours,

Josh Billings on Laughter.— I don't like a giggler. This kind of laff is like the dandylion, a feeble yeller, and not a bit of good smell about it. It is true that any kind of a laff is better than none—but give me the laff that looks out ov a man's eyes fast to see if the coast is clear then steals fust to see if the coast is clear, then steals down into a dimple, and rides in an eddy that awhile, then waltzes a spell, at the korners of his mouth, like a thing of life, then busts its bonds of buty, and fills the air for a moment with a shower of silvery-tongued sparks—then steals back with a smile to its lair in the haste tew wait agin for its prey. This is the kind of laff that I live, and ain't afraid ov. fust to see if the coast is clear, then steads luv, and ain't afraid ov.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Jewelry Association calls your attention to the fact of its being the largest and most popular Jewelry Association in the United States. The business is and always has been conducted in the roost candid and honorable manner. Our rapidly increasing trade is a sure guarantee of the appreciation of our patrons for this method.

Obtaining rich, slegant and costly goods. The sudden stagnation of trade in Europe, owing to the late forman war, and recent diseastrous financial crisis in Europe, has caused the tailing of large humber of lewelry houses in London and Paris, obliging them to sell their goods at a great sacrifice, in some instances less than one third the cost of manufacturing. We have lately purchased very largely of these hankrupt goods, at such extremely low prices that we can afford to send away finer goods and give better chances to draw the most valuable prizes than any other establishment doin. similar business. OUR AIM 18 TO PLEASE, and we respectfully activity pur patronage, as we are confident of giving the utmost sulisfaction. Puring the past year we have forwarded a number of the most valuable prizes to all parts of the country. Those who patronize us will receive the full value of their manner. Parties dealing with us may depend on having prompt returns, and the article drawn will be immediately sent to any address by return mail or express.

The following parties have recently drawn valuable prizes from the Merchants and Manufacturers' Jewelry Association, and have Kindly allowed use of their names:
